

David Felix

MS Marine Geology, University of Southern California
Professional Geologist (California)

- 14 years as Geologist with Kennecott Exploration and Kennecott Manganese Nodule Consortium 1968 – 1982; responsible for exploration, equipment design, development of analytical techniques, database development, deposit evaluation; exploration cruise organizer and leader
- 7 years as consultant to large and small mining companies; exploration and evaluation of nodule deposits, marine phosphorites, placer gold deposits and other minerals
- 19 years as Technical Specialist with San Diego County Department of Environmental Health; environmental contamination research, management of site investigation and remediation projects, environmental impact review
- Professional Certificate in Hazardous Materials Management, UC San Diego

dfelix@deepreachtech.com